Preface

This delightful little Sonatina was written in only 2 days, though not consecutively. The composer jotted down the first 16 bars on May 23, 2002, which then sat in a folder until the following September 22nd, when the composer revisited the piece and completed it. The Sonatina is a variation on a principal theme from the "Symphony No.1" by Chester James Howard, a proficient clarinet player as well as pianist, and friend of the composer.
